Disposable Patient Wear

Disposable patient wear is ideal for patients in hospitals and clinics. Patient wear is put on before the patient is examined or goes into surgery.

Abena's disposable patient gowns are king blue and come in 3 different sizes. Underpants and shoe covers are one-size and available in respectively white and dark blue.

Abena provides disposable patient wear on its own and in a kit that consists of a bouffant cap, a M/L gown, underpants and shoe covers.

Abena's Protective Wear Range

The protective wear range has been developed in close co-operation with users, care staff and our nurse specialists.

The range is based on customer needs and demands. It includes solutions for all needs – from bouffant caps to face masks, a variety of gowns, underpants, shoe covers and bed linen.

The protective wear range is made with consideration for personal preferences and tradition in use.

What is Nonwoven Polypropylene?

Nonwoven PP is a material made from synthetic fibers that are bound together without weaving. The nonwoven PP is treated to make it repellent to squirts. If an extra polyethylene (PE) foil is added to the nonwoven PP, it becomes resistant to liquids.

What is SMS?

SMS is a nonwoven fabric combined of 2 spunbond woven layers and one meltblown nonwoven inside. The layer combination of SMS makes the fabric repellent to squirts.

The quality of nonwoven PP, PE and SMS is measured in grams per square meter (g/m²).
